[By Associated Press.]

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The possibility of the four Premiers reaching an agreement which will enable the Erussels conference to assemble with any prospect of success seems tonight to hang on an extremely tenuous thread. As with all previous attempts to solve the reparations problems, the main difficulty lies in French determination to secure penalties or guarantees of a military character for the fulfillment of German obligations.

The new British government is man obligations.

The new British government is considered more favorable towards France than the previous administration, but Bonar Law in the present conference has shown himself to be as warmly opposed to any occupation of the Ruhr as was his predecessor, while the Italian Premier, Signor Mussolini, still an unknown influence in European conferences, also opposed anything except what he terms economic and productive guarantees.

To Permand Occupation of Ruhr.

Premier Reincare asserted today that France would demand the occupation of the Ruhr as a fundamental guarantee for any moratorium, and the stiffening of the French Premier's attitude changed the hopeful view of the French delegation to one of gloom. M. Poincare reasserted his demand for the Ruhr after receipt of advices from Paris that his attitude advices from Paris that his attitude in London had been interpreted in the Cliamber of Deputies and by-portion of the press as a weakening in the face of Bonar Law.

M. Poincare went to the Premiers' meeting today in a determined mood and informed the others that France flatly rejected Chancellor Cuno's new proposals.

Bonar Law, on the other hand, told M. Poincare he thought the German proposals were at least worth discussing at greater length, but M. Poincare insisted they were vague and were intended as a maneuver to forestall action by the allies, rather than a serious proposal for sattless. than a serious proposal for settle-ment, adding that Germany had made a similar move at nearly all pre-vious allied meetings dealing with

The chances of a settlement wera anything but bright tonight, since would have been far on the road for prosperity, if it had not been for strikes, and the net earnings of the arrives might easily have been the largest for any month since the war period.
